

B.Sc Electronic Science

- a) To provide in-depth knowledge of scientific and technological aspects of electronics
- b) To familiarize with current and recent technological developments
- c) To enrich knowledge through programmes such as industrial visits, hobby projects, market survey, projects etc.
- d) To train students in skills related to electronics industry and market.
- e) To create foundation for research and development in Electronics
- f) To develop analytical abilities towards real world problems
- g) To help students build-up a progressive and successful career in Electronics.